A LIVING WAGE. RIGHT NOW.

The Los Angeles/Orange County region boasts the largest number of small businesses and the highest total small business sales in the state.

By 2020, more than 7.5 million people—more than 40% of American workers—will own their own small business or be self-employed as part of the “gig economy.”

The average annual wage for business and financial operations occupations was $68,350 as of May 2018—nearly $30,000 higher than the average for all careers.

BUILDING BUSINESSES, BIG AND SMALL...

You’ve always wanted an independent career, and maybe even your own company. But it takes more than desire to succeed in the ever-evolving world of business and entrepreneurship. It takes a firm foundation in the philosophy, practice, and technology of modern business.

Each year, nearly 1/3 of California job openings are for business- and finance-related positions. Virtually every business depends on professionals with accounting, finance, office tech, or management skills, and Orange County community college career education grads are putting their Business & Entrepreneurship training to work every day!

Ready to earn more money in an exciting, high-stakes career where you call the shots? Your Orange County community college has an award-winning career education program for you!

All nine Orange County community colleges earned Strong Workforce Stars in 2018 for excellence in employment and wage outcomes in a Business or Management program.

A HIRE EDUCATION.

Business professionals are in demand across every industry, and commanding higher salaries!

FACT Opportunities in the business sector are growing, with the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projecting 773,800 new jobs by 2026.
